SULTAN FLEES IN FEAR: PLEADS TO BRITAIN FOR AID

Seeks Refuge in Malta
Aboard British Battleship.

BULLETIN.
London, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hussien Hilmi Bey, president of the Turkish Socialist party, has been assassinated in Constantinople today, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch today.

BULLETIN.
Constantinople, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—An attempt by the Kemalists to run the intermed Turkish destroyer Akhisar, disguised as a merchantman, out of the Golden Horn, past the Allied control, was frustrated last night.

Constantinople, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mohammed VI, the Turkish Sultan, has fled from Constantinople on a British warship, bound for Malta.

Upon embarking the Sultan emphasized that he was not abdicating, but merely removing himself from immediate danger.

The Sultan wrote to Lieutenant General Harrington, the British commander-in-chief, Wednesday, saying he considered his life to be in danger, and would like British protection.

The Sultan has been perturbed over his status since the action of the Turkish nationalist assembly at Ankara early this month voting to depose him of his civil authority and declaring the Caliph, or religious head of Islam, would hereafter be selected from the imperial house by vote of the grand national assembly.

In the face of the filtration of nationalist military elements into Constantinople, and the knowledge that the Ankara authorities would eventually be in full control in the Turkish capital, the Sultan and his advisors have been at sea as to the proper course for him to pursue. The bulk of his guard went over to the nationalists, and Constantinople districts have been pictured many virtually at the mercy of the Kemalists, should they decide to make a descent in force on his palace. There have been rumors that he had abdicated or was about to do so, but there has been no official confirmation of any such action on his part.

Political motives may be read in some quarters into the flight of the Sultan on a British warship. Great Britain concededly has strong motives for seeing that no harm comes to the caliph, in view of the many millions of Musselmans subjects within her domain, many of whom have given indications of disagreement with the action of the Turkish nationalists, disputing the power of the Turks alone to take action affecting all Islam. The question of the Sultan's status, too, is likely to come up at the Lausanne conference open to open, and it now appears probable that when this question is being debated the caliph himself will be under British protection—a refuge at Britain's naval base in the Mediterranean.

Penny Completing Remarkable Season

Highway Commissioner James Penny is bringing to a close one of the longest and most successful seasons of this office in many years. Ordinarily the township road working equipment is stored away and undergoing repairs at this time of the year, but this season most of the machinery is still in operation and will continue to be until bad weather closes the road repair program of work.

Commissioner Penny has established a record for road work in the township this season. He has gravely nineteen miles of road and has built one and one-half miles of stone road, besides having resurfaced several miles of hard road and aided the county in many instances.

Refugees in Dire Need of Clothing

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 17.—Starving refugees in islands in the Aegean Sea are in need of more than 100 tons of food daily to sustain life and should have 100,000 blankets and immense quantities of shoes and material for clothing, the Red Cross was advised today by O. O. Hubbard, a Y. M. C. A. representative at Athens, who has just completed a tour of the islands.

Mr. Hubbard reported that on one island he found refugees living on locust pods while at another point they were boiling grass which goats had refused to eat. On certain islands, the Red Cross was told, the number of refugees exceeded the normal population.

LINEMAN BADLY BURNED; SOLDER FLEW INTO FACE

R. L. Wilbert Victim of Painful Accident Thursday P. M.

R. L. Wilbert, a lineman in the employ of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company, received painful burns about the face yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while at work on a pole at the steam plant in the west end of the city. The lineman was engaged in soldering a connection on a line carrying 2,300 volts when an arc was formed through the solder ladle, which flashed before his face.

The flash from the arc struck him in the face, singeing the eye brows and burning him about the eyes. His clothes caught fire from the arc and were badly scorched, but fortunately, the victim of the accident extinguished the smoldering fire before it reached his body.

He was taken to the office of Dr. E. B. Owens, where the injuries were dressed and will be confined to his home for several days because of the burns in the face, the most severe of these being in the right eye.

ALLEGED WOMEN POISONERS ARE DECLARED SANE

Expert Completes Examination of Two Held in Jail.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Tillie Klimck and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Koulik, suspected of having caused the death of a dozen or more persons by poison and held on charges of murder, are sane, according to Dr. William J. Hickson, city psychopathic expert.

Dr. Hickson spent more than four hours in a mental test of the two women. The examination, according to police, was made in anticipation of an insanity defense by the women.

The examination disclosed, however, that both women are subnormal, Dr. Hickson said. He expected to present his written technical report in court today. According to Assistant State Attorney McLaughlin, the dementia praecox findings of Dr. Hickson were of an insufficient degree to serve as a substantial defense.

"As for dementia praecox, it would be hard to find a human being who is not a little off on some one thing," said the prosecutor.

Two more women, who said they became ill after eating candy given to them by Mrs. Koulik and Mrs. Klimck, were questioned. They were Stella Grantkowski, sister of an alleged former sweet heart of Mrs. Klimck, who died under mysterious circumstances in 1914, and Mrs. Rose Splitt.

Minister Declares Turks Want Peace

Angora, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Addressing the national assembly on the postponement of the Lausanne peace conference to November 20, Reuf Bey, acting minister of foreign affairs said:

"We desire a speedy peace. I must repeat that we will not accept the responsibility for any untoward incidents resulting from this adjournment of the conference."

Former Dixon Man Elected on G. O. P. Ticket in Colorado

James F. Sanford of Colorado Springs, Colo., formerly of Dixon, has been selected County Judge on the Republican ticket, in spite of a Democratic landslide in that district. Judge Sanford secured a majority of 227. He was the only man on the Republican ticket who was elected. Dixon friends will be pleased to learn of the former Dixon man's success. The news was received in a letter to W. W. Gilbert, of Dixon.

WHAT PROMINENT LAYMEN SAY OF THE VALUE OF THE CHURCH

BY GEO. W. HAWLEY
I fully realize that my observations may be, and probably are, quite different from a great many others; nevertheless, it was my personal viewpoint that was asked for.

Seriously speaking, I believe a very few men, and fewer women, would care to live in a community where there was no collective body of Christians, termed a church. If we would not care to live without the church, then why should we not be consistent and give the church our support, not only financially but morally by attendance, not expecting others to keep the doors from being closed until such time as we might feel the need of the church for a christening, a wedding or a funeral?

I believe that the churchgoer more fully realizes his, or her, shortcom-

BROOM, BOTTLE, MAN AND WOMAN FIGURED IN BLOODY CONTEST

"Bootleggers' Knob" Was Scene of Real Scrap Thursday Afternoon.

That part of the east end of the city which is known as "Bootleggers' Knob" was the scene of a bloody conflict yesterday afternoon, in which two of the participants suffered deep scalp wounds which required several stitches to close.

According to police reports the trouble started over a goose which was the property of Charlie Popp. It is said that the goose wandered over to the home of Mrs. Mary Catalina, where it proceeded to devour almost anything in the line of edibles that could be found. Mrs. Catalina is alleged, according to Popp's story, to have used a broom with which she beat the offending goose away.

It was at this stage of the proceeding that Popp was said to have interfered and he is said to have taken the broom away from Mrs. Catalina and began using it on her, opening a deep gash in her scalp. Popp alleges that Mrs. Catalina then grabbed up a bottle of moonshine and threw it at him, striking him in the head and inflicting a long three centered gash.

Both Bled Profusely

When Chief Van Bibber arrived on the scene he found Mrs. Catalina bleeding profusely and demanding that Popp be arrested. At the Popp home he also found Charlie nursing a deep scalp wound from which the blood was flowing quite freely. A physician was summoned and the same number of stitches were required in each case to close the wounds.

Mrs. Catalina then came down to Justice Albert Hanneken's court and swore out a warrant charging Popp with assault and battery. The case was continued until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Popp a week ago last Sunday claimed to have been held up on his way home from the cement plant, and to have been hit by a bandit. According to reports that have been handed in to the police, Popp received his injuries at that time in a crap game at the cement plant with a gang of Mexicans and was not the victim of the holdup as claimed.

Firemen Received Donations to Fund; Fair in Full Swing

Chief Tom Coffey of the fire department this morning received two cash donations from citizens to be used toward the fund for entertaining delegates to the state convention of the Illinois Fireman's association to be held in Dixon early in January. The donations came unsolicited and with the understanding that the names of the donors be withheld.

The firemen's bazaar which is in progress at Rosbrook's hall is receiving very liberal patronage and will conclude tomorrow evening. Last night delegates from both the Amboy and Rock Falls fire departments were present with a number of their friends. All of the proceeds from the fair are to be used for the entertainment of the visiting delegates in January.

Fire in Canadian Asylum for Insane

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Quebec, Nov. 17.—The Beaufort insane asylum where Adelaide Delorme, former priest, is confined for the murder of his half-brother, caught fire today. The blaze started in the work shops in the rear of the main building and threatened to spread. The institution is one of the largest of its kind in the Dominion.

The fire was brought under control after a hard fight and did not reach the main building.

Steve Bottino, 11, one of the six children of Joseph Bottino, who lived on the second floor, died in a hospital.

Immediately after the explosion flames enveloped the building, trapping the occupants, whose screams were heard for blocks.

Fumes from the stoves fed the fury of the flames. The floor of the grocery fell in with the explosion, permitting the fire to jump immediately to the second floor.

Firemen reached the scene in a few minutes, but hesitated to throw strong streams of water into the building, which burned like a furnace, for fear of further endangering the trapped occupants.

Battalion Chief a Hero.

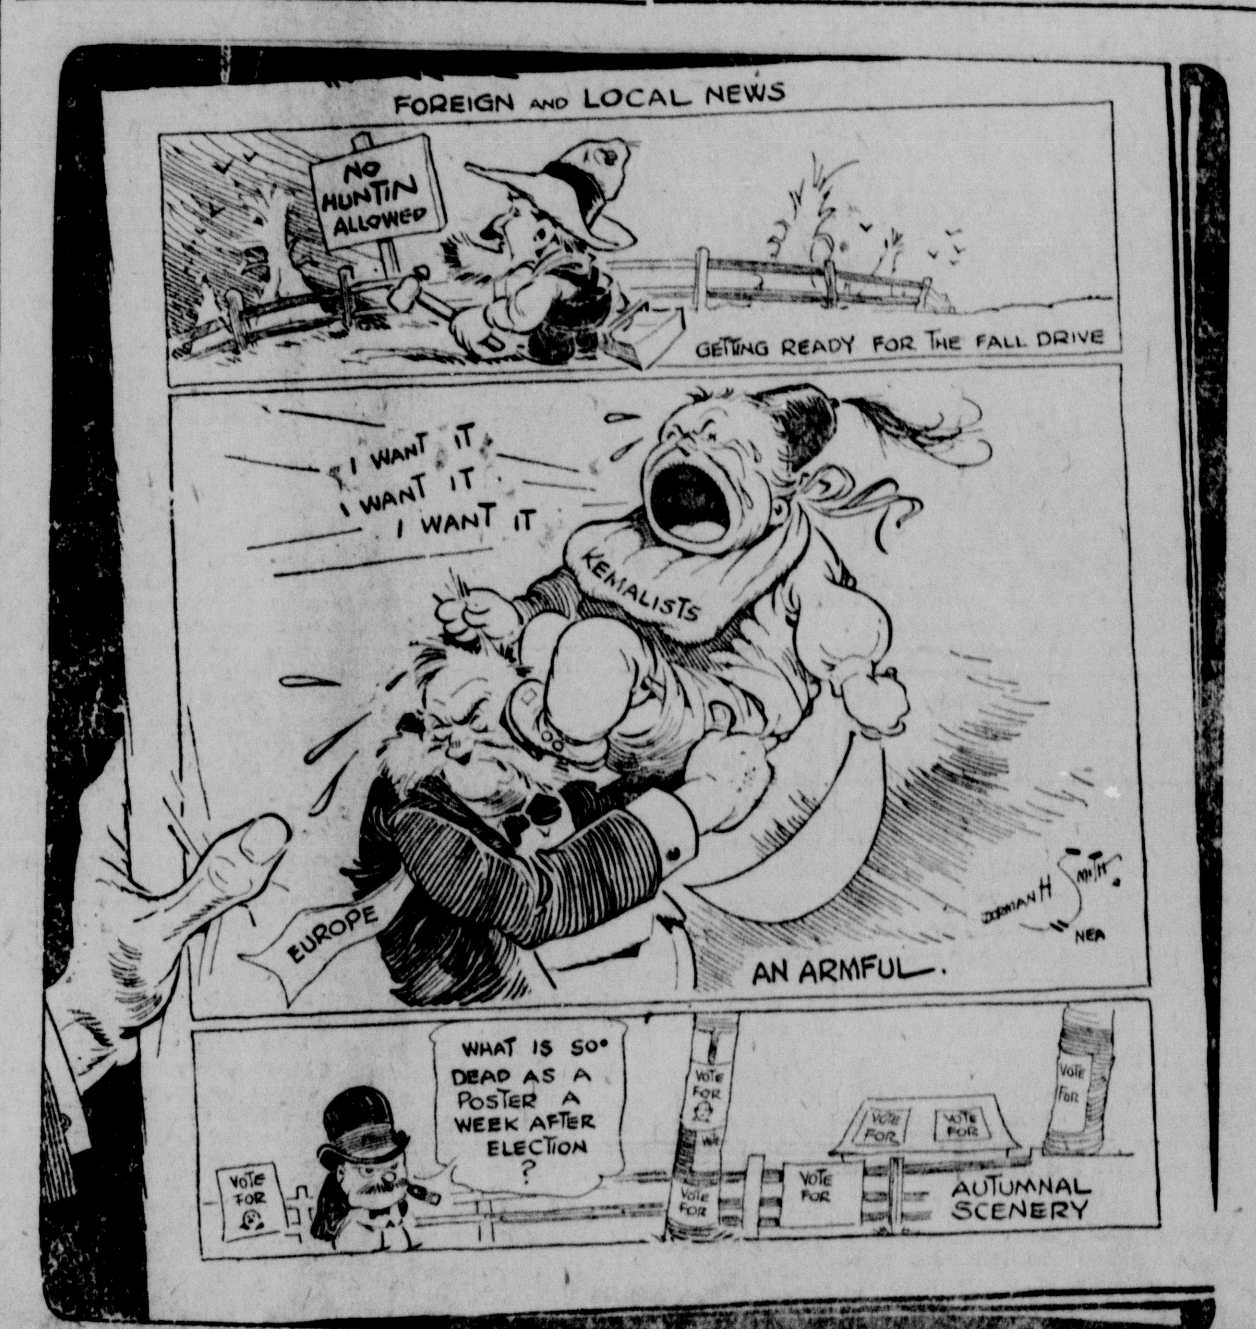

Donning a gas mask and ordering none but his chauffeur, Charles Bratt, to follow, Frank Brabant, battalion fire chief, entered through the flames with Bratt at his heels.

Firemen, fearful for their chief when he failed to reappear in a few minutes, were on the point of disobeying his orders, but hesitated to follow.

Suddenly Brabant burst through the outside with a child under each arm. He turned back and soon brought out another injured child. Bratt rescued several others.

THE BUSY MAN'S NEWSPAPER

THREE KILLED, NINE INJURED IN CHICAGO BLAST DURING NIGHT

Stills Found in Ruins of Building Wrecked By Explosion.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 17.—Police today worked on the theory that a bomb caused last night's explosion and fire in moonshine distillery, resulting in the death of three persons and the injury of at least nine others.

The explosion occurred in a mixed foreign quarter of the city, a melting pot for eleven different nationalities. Two buildings were wrecked.

In the ruins of one building, which was swept by flames, police and firemen found the wreckage of two stills. The original report of the firemen was that one of the stills had exploded. Later investigation developed the bomb theory. It was learned that former occupants of the building had been slain by bombs and that threats had been made against the lives of families, who up to last night lived in the structure.

The ground floor of the building in which the distillery was located was occupied by a grocery store and the living quarters of the man who owned it—Joseph H. Verdini and his family.

Verdini is in a hospital suffering from severe burns. His wife, Paulina, 35, and her 15-month-old baby were burned to death. Firemen found the bodies with the child clasped in its mother's arms.

SMILES SAVED MRS. PHILLIPS, JURORS DECLARE Men Admit Her Appealing Smiles Softened Their Hearts.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Clara Phillips was saved from the gallows by her smiles, it was freely asserted today.

The men members of the jury which found her guilty of second degree murder for beating Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows to death with a hammer, were quoted today as admitting that had it not been for the defendant's smile, she probably would have been convicted of first degree murder, without a recommendation for clemency, thus making death the only penalty.

They said that Mrs. Phillips seemed to study them, one at a time, and to flash frequent smiles at them while she turned an apparently stoical back to the spectators crowded in the court room.

"And she had the most appealing smile I ever saw" was the way one juror was quoted.

Women Not Affected

But the women jurors were not affected by it, it was stated, as all three favored a verdict which would have sent Mrs. Phillips to the gallows. They found a compromise was necessary to avoid a disagreement.

While the defense planned to ask for a trial next Monday, the time set for passing sentence, which may be any period of years from ten to life, the state counsel said they had no comment to make on the verdict.

One newspaper reporter quoted Mrs. Phillips as saying:

"I don't know whether I killed Alberta Meadows or not, but if I did, it was for mother love, for Armour A. Phillips, my husband, is my only baby, and when I realized he was being taken from me, I fought and fought and fought, so I might have him always."

Belgian Champ to Meet Jake Schaefer

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Nov. 17.—Roger Conti of France and Erich Hagenlacher of Germany will meet in the main match today for the international 18.5 ball cue billiard tournament.

Hagenlacher, whose high run for the tournament has been 175, has failed to win any of the three matches in which he has played. Conti's tournament score is, won 1 and lost 1.

Edouard Horremans of Belgium, who in defeating Hagenlacher in one of yesterday's contests, 593 to 391, ran a cluster of 244, the highest run thus far in the tournament, will meet Jake Schaefer in tonight's match.

Willie Hoppe, the former champion, won his second game of the tournament last night, by defeating Welker 150 to 162 in nine innings.

MERGER OF RAILWAY SYSTEMS OF NORTH-WEST IS CONSIDERED

Commerce Commission is Seeking Facts of Proposed Merger.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 17.—Whether transcontinental railroads in the northwest should be consolidated into two regional systems, one built around the Great Northern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the other around the Northern Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, was taken up for detailed consideration at a meeting today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representatives of the "Hill" group, including the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington, were given the first opportunity to be heard and through Walker D. Hines, formerly director general of railroads, they immediately attacked the consolidation plan, which would result in a separation in their present unified holdings.

Other railroads concerned, including the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, through its president, H. E. Byrnes, and the Duluth, Mesabie Northern, one of the iron ore carriers, as well as various state railroad commissions also were represented at the hearing.

Commissioner Hall opened the session by explaining that the commission was proceeding under the general instructions of congress to prepare a consolidation plan that would combine all the major railroads in the United States into 18 or 20 great regional systems. The commission, he said, had tentatively proposed in the northwest to separate the Great Northern from the present "Hill" group, to combine it with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and thus create two strong systems in the same territory.

"However, the commission's plan is not to be taken as a pre-judgment of the situation," Commissioner Hall declared.

"It represents an attack at the general problem and a basis for building up the fullest record of fact and argument which the commission can elicit to aid it in decisions and the eventual action will be dictated by findings from the record."

COAL THIEVES PLEAD GUILTY; FINED AND PAY

Judge Crabtree Also Orders Men Spend One Day in Jail.

Robert Emory, Oliver Boyer, Herman Bock and James Mocklin, held on charges of stealing coal from a car consigned to a Belvidere dealer, on the North Western, pleaded guilty, a week ago, appeared before Judge John B. Crabtree in the county court this morning and entered pleas of guilty.

Each of the quartette was fined $25 and costs and was ordered to pay for the coal, which amounted to $15 apiece and spend one day in the county jail. Mocklin paid his fine and costs and Emory was expected to be able to furnish his amount this afternoon. Boyer and Bock were unable to secure financial assistance and went back to the county jail.

ITALIAN PREMIER SCORED SUCCESS IN FIRST SPEECH

Chamber Received His Orders with Obedience Thursday.

Rome, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Mussolini's first appearance before the Italian chamber proved a great personal success. He spoke to the deputies as he had addressed the leaders of his Fascist legions, and his orders were received with similar apparent obedience.

He announced his foreign and internal policies and warned his adversaries that the Fascist government had come to stay. He did not ask, but demanded a vote of confidence in his government, declaring that if the deputies refused, their mandates would be withdrawn.

His bitter enemies, who had looked forward joyously to his encounter with the experienced politicians on their own battlefield were disappointed, and his friends are saying that he is the greatest leader Italy has seen since Cavour and that the Fascist rule will endure.

Was Congratulated

Congratulations were showered on the youthful leader from all sides after he had concluded his exposition of the government's program. The parliamentary groups joined in the applause, with the exception of the extremists, who abstained from displaying any emotion. In the lobbies afterward, the expression was heard many times repeated that in Mussolini, Italy, had found the leader for which she has been looking for many years. One of the deputies exclaimed to another:

"He reminded me of Louis XIV—'L'Etat, C'est Moi.'" ("The state, I am the state.")

At today's meeting of the chamber, the minister of the treasury, Prof. Tangorra, will explain the details of the government's plan for bureaucratic and fiscal reform.

Premier Mussolini, however, has expressed the desire that only one orator from each of the eleven groups in the chamber be allowed to speak before the vote of confidence is taken.

Screen Door Used for Radio Aerial

Howard Hall has installed temporarily one of the radio outfits, for which he is the agent, in the Boynton Richards store, where equipment was placed yesterday, and last evening, using the screen door in the rear of the store as an aerial, the operator picked up several sending stations and some fine programs were heard. Several of the big football games will be received play by play tomorrow afternoon by Mr. Hall, who is operating the machine.

TOLD YEOMEN HE'S IMPRESSED BY SPIRIT HERE

Henry Myers, State Manager, Also Gets Reception.

Members of Abraham Lincoln Homestead No. 6377 are today extremely optimistic concerning Dixon's chances of securing the great Children's Home of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, as a result of the visit paid this city and the Homestead this week by C. L. Vrooman of Kansas City, a member of the national Board of Directors of the society, and Henry W. Myers of Chicago, the state manager.

Mr. Vrooman, who is one of five members of the Children's Home Site committee which will decide the location of the proposed institution, delivered the principal speech at a meeting of Abraham Lincoln Homestead No. 6377, Tuesday evening, on unexpectedly. He dropped into Dixon, following a trip to the proposed Dixon site. He dropped into Dixon, following a trip to the proposed Dixon site. He dropped into Dixon, following a trip to the proposed Dixon site.

Mr. Vrooman urged Yeomen not to neglect the insurance feature of the fraternity, which he described as being as solid as any old line insurance, since both are conducted under the same legal requirements—as to reserve funds for the protection of policy holders. No old line policy can excel those issued by the Yeomen, he said.

He said the society was especially fortunate in having as its secretary, A. N. Farmer, who was an orphan himself, who knew what it was to be left without parents; to be taken into the home of a Minnesota farmer, adopted him and sent him through college. As a result of his experiences Mr. Farmer knows that the Yeomen's Home must not be simply an orphanage. It must be a "home" in every possibility, with a dozen kiddies, 2 to 15 years of age, grouped in individual homes, each with foster parents in charge—homes into which anyone would wish to go and where anyone would be happy and contented.

Thanked Foreman Miller

The Kansas City director emphasized the importance of the juvenile department of the order as being the best feature of the work. It urged it as the duty of every Yeoman to instill into the minds of the young a proper appreciation of America and American Institutions. He thanked Foreman C. E. Miller of Abraham Lincoln Homestead for the excellent manner in which Dixon's work for the Home has been carried on, and in response to an inquiry as to whether the Board of Directors would visit Dixon, he announced that 150 more members were secured here, he replied they would come if a hundred more Yeomen were secured.

Declaring that the location of the Home will not be for mercenary consideration—in which many larger cities would have the advantage—Mr. Vrooman illustrated the reasons why a flourishing loge of Yeomen is necessary wherever the home is situated, by declaring that no one would think of building a Knights of Columbus home where they were no Knights. He declared that many cities have offered Homesteads of 1000 members in return for the Home, the speaker said, but in every case the offers have been turned down because of other conditions which the committee do not believe advantageous to the Home.

Myers is Applauded

State Manager Henry Myers was prevented from speaking for nearly three minutes by the applause which greeted him. Mr. Myers is an especially popular man in Dixon. He is known to be absolutely "on the square," and when the Hoque is finally located there will be no one able to accuse him of having played any favorites.

Mr. Myers realizes that Peoria—Dixon's main opponent in Illinois for the Home—has an excellent site, but he also realizes that the distance from Chicago and Des Moines and its inaccessibility are to its disadvantage. Moline and Rock Island sites have been eliminated, it is reported. Myers has been up and down through the state of Illinois, viewing sites, and he is impressed greatly with the spirit of the people of the state.

Today the fight for the home is between Iowa and Illinois, with Dixon having the advantage over Peoria as being Illinois' choice. This city is most wonderfully accessible. Over fifty per cent of the 6,500,000 people

BALLADE OF AUTUMN—
(From the Kansas City Star.)
A white rose in the goldenrod,
My love stood by the orchard gate;
The morning beamed, a smile from God,
My rhythmic pulses leaped elate,
For then was wrought by happy fate
The charm unchanged by changeful years.
Oh, we forgot, our joy so great,
Meek autumn smiling though in tears.

Dead long ago! But paths she trod
Still with her presence palpitate;
I feel her footfall on the sod,
And tender memories penetrate
My breast like fragrance delicate—
It seems my heart her whisper hears!
And lo, a touch compassionate—
Meek autumn smiling though in tears.

Here, still, the old time flowers nod,
The same trees dream in calm sedate,
Unchanged the hills and meadows
broad;
And still her love, a voice inate,
Breathes here the place to consecrate;
But, where her laughter filled my ears,
A mourner is my bosom's mate—
Meek autumn smiling though in tears.

Envoy.
O heart, wise autumn bids thee wait—
She knows the hope the seed inspires,
Her vision holds the spring's glad state—
Meek autumn smiling though in tears.

It isn't your church. It's You."

DIXON WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS COMMEMORATES ARMISTICE DAY—

The regular meeting of the Dixon Woman's Relief Corps No. 218, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., was held on Monday evening in G. A. R. hall. The meeting was very well attended and there was balloting and initiation, and matters of interest were brought before the Corps. Thirty caps were reported ready for shipment to the Fitzsimmons Hospital in Denver, Col., and the usual holiday donations were made to the Homes at Quincy, Wilmington and Normal. After a business session made brief as possible, the evening was given over to a program, homecoming Armistice Day.

The hall was decorated with streamers of red, white and blue, and flags, and a lovely basket of red poppies adorned the altar in commemoration of the day.

The Rev. Aubrey S. Moore was the speaker of the evening and was escorted into the hall by the color bearers and conductor. His address on the "Signing of the Armistice" should have been heard by every one for in it was sounded the keynote to a world-wide situation, the hope of universal peace and the brotherhood of mankind. It was the prayer of every man who lost his life in the late world war that by his death the war would be ended, and quickly, and for all time. A brotherhood extending to the corners of

KINGDOM COMMUNITY AID SOCIETY—

The ladies of the Kingdom Community Aid society held their regular meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ivan Floto. There was a good attendance of members and several visitors. The Floto home was attractively decorated with flowers and foliage.

The day was spent in a general good time, each one present sewing for themselves.

A scramble dinner was served by the hostess.
At 2:30 the business meeting was called to order and the general routine of business was transacted. A gift is to be made to a worthy "shut-in" as a small offering of thanks from the society.

The president, Mrs. Stevens, thanked the members for the beautiful blooming plant sent her daughter, Mrs. George Schreiber of Ashton, who has been seriously ill but who is now convalescing.

The ladies of the society decided to sew on Friday, Dec. 1st, at the orphanage for their charge and also to help the seamstress at the home. The ladies on the committee are Mrs. Heagy, Mrs. Brink, Mrs. Grobe, and the thank offering committee is composed of Mrs. Floto, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Stevens.

The meeting closed with music on the Victrola. Mrs. Floto was voted an excellent entertainer on adjournment of the members.

MILLAR-MILLER—

A wedding of much interest to Peoria people was one of Wednesday, Nov. 8, which united the lives of Miss Dorothy Miller of Bay City, Mich., and Mr. Max Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller of this city, says the Peoria Press. The bride and groom is well-known here.

Below is a reprint of the account of the wedding as published by the Peoria City Times-Tribune:
"The altar of Grace Episcopal church, with its decorations of white chrysanthemums, lent itself most beautifully as the setting for the wedding service on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, that united Miss Dorothy Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller, of this city, and Mr. Max Miller, of Bay City, Mich., to Mr. Max Miller, of Chicago. The service was read by Rev. Reginald J. Charles, rector. Two solos were rendered by Clarence Pettit, and the bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from 'Lohengrin,' played by Charles E. White.

"The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white crepe back satin, a draped model, with a veil of tulle, and she carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Rhea Miller, of Cairo, who assisted her sister as maid of honor, wore a draped gown of sunburst chiffon velvet and a black velvet hat, ostrich trimmed. Mrs. Richard H. Fletcher, Jr., Mrs. Clarence Miller, of Saginaw, Miss Florence Van Emmond and Miss Irene McLean, dressed in gowns of colored jade, sky blue, peach glow and orchid, respectively, were the bride's attendants, and they carried arm bouquets of bech chrysanthemums. Little Helen Fletcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Fletcher, Jr., wearing a dress of black velvet with a white lace bertha, and a black velvet poke bonnet, was a adorable flower girl.

"George Lyman, of Chicago, served the bridegroom as best man, while Messrs. Floyd Beutel, of Ann Arbor, Clarence Miller, of Saginaw, Richard H. Fletcher, Jr., and Edward N. Sher, were the ushers.

"Mrs. Miller, mother of the bride, was stunning in a gown of black broche velvet over silver champagne, while Mrs. Miller, of Peoria, Ill., mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of purple chiffon trimmed with sequins.

"After the ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the bride. The table, which was artistically decorated with huge bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. A mound of bech chrysanthemums forced a centerpiece for the bride's table, while miniature white baskets tied with yellow tulle marked each place.

"After a three weeks' wedding trip in the east, Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be at home in Chicago, Ill."

ENTERTAINED FOR MRS. ARTHUR MCCOY—

Mrs. Ralph Lievan delightfully entertained a company of friends Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crawford, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCoy of Clinton, Ia., (nee Seville Crawford). The marriage of the couple was a surprise to relatives and friends.

In the charming Crawford home were beautiful bouquets of pink roses and chrysanthemums and ferns. A dainty luncheon was served, the lovely decorations being carried out in pink and white. After the luncheon a miscellaneous shower was held and Mrs. McCoy received a number of handsome gifts, this part of the evening being a surprise to Mrs. McCoy.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Ralph Lievan, Mrs. George Crawford and Mrs. Joseph Crawford entertained with a dinner at Miss Breed's for Mr. and Mrs. McCoy, followed with a pleasant evening at bridge at the home of Mrs. McCoy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crawford. The beautiful decorations in pink and white, pink roses and snap dragon, were in evidence, everywhere. A happy evening in bridge and music was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy motored to their home in Clinton, Iowa, yesterday after visiting relatives and friends here.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE—

Wales remains true to many of the old Anglo-Saxon marriage customs, particularly the one which prescribes an impressive escort for the bride. Often a bride's entire circle of friends will attend her, making a procession of 50 or even more.

The wedding party always halts at the door of the church where the marriage ceremony is solemnized. After the marriage the guests enter the church for music and another special ceremony.

You are careful to observe the etiquette of the theater. If you have occasion to ask the woman sitting in front of you to remove her hat you word your request in the most polite terms. The first note from the orchestra should be the signal for quiet. If you arrive during the overture, or after the performance has begun, you should be careful to see that your chair is not clattered or allowed to rustle noisily. Of course, you do not rustle your program.

Condition of Gen. Luke Wright Serious

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 17.—The condition of General Luke E. Wright, former Secretary of War, who is ill at his home was reported extremely critical this morning. It was stated that Mr. Wright, whose life has been despaired of, is gradually growing weaker.

Galena Ave. Street Work is Completed

The task of paving Galena avenue, Hennepin avenue, Seventh street and Patrick Court with cement has been completed and these roadways are now open to the public. The work, which was started late in the spring, has been delayed somewhat by the railway strike, which tied up shipments, but the contractors have rushed the work to completion as rapidly as possible in spite of the delays.

HOW IS YOUR SPINE? STRAIGHT OR CROOKED?

You can not have a crooked spine, and still have health. Each small bone of the spine out of position means a pressure on the nerves that emit from that place, and results in an interference with the nerve supply to a certain and definite tissue or organ.

Anatomy and Physiology have proven the fact that all tissues and organs are regulated and controlled in their functions by the nerve supply. Hence, an interference with that nerve supply means an abnormal function, which is called Disease.

Chiropractic Adjustments can and will straighten a crooked spine. A straight spine means health. Now, before winter sets in, is the logical time to have your spine analyzed, to see where the trouble is. If you do not have good health, Chiropractic is the logical solution. Start right now.

SMASHES

While glad that auto production is booming, remember that it means more cars for the pedestrian to dodge more caution if drivers want to avoid accidents.

Uncle Sam's census takers announce that 10,168 Americans were killed last year in auto and motorcycle accidents in the death registration district, which includes 34 states.

That would scare us into caution if it all happened at once, like destruction of a town with 10,168 inhabitants. Coming singly, we do not realize the terrible total. Be careful.
Save life.

CANADA

Canada expects to have her own ambassador, possibly under a different title, representing her in Washington. Heretofore her diplomatic relations with us have been handled through the British ambassador.

I mean, Canada thinks it wiser to deal with Uncle Sam direct instead of through a third party thousands of miles away. A sensible arrangement for neighbors. Canada understands as better than the English.

INSANITY

Many cases of insanity might be cured by training the body's endocrine glands, thinks Dr. William Held, medical lecturer.

This is undoubtedly true. But, for results on a wide scale, we'll have to wait at least 20 years. Tinkering with the endocrine glands is a new medical art, still in the laboratory stage, many mysteries to be solved, many invisible dangers to be revealed and guarded against.

The glands are the switchboards regulating the life current.

COUE

Coue, French psychologist, springs into the limelight and attracts an enormous following. His theory based on auto-suggestion, is that imagination is stronger than will power.

Make a sick person imagine he's well and he'll become well, Coue reasons. So, if you want to attain health and happiness, Coue tells you to repeat over and over this formula: "Every day, and in every way, I get better and better."

Some physicians are alarmed at the spread of Coue-ism, but needlessly so.
Most of his converts are neurotics and his formula is better for them than this one which they formerly had:
"Every day, and in every way,
I get worse and worse."

PRESTO!

Doctors are chuckling over this story: A woman, desiring to cure herself of low-legs, took up the Coue system of auto-suggestion. Her adviser said she could straighten her legs by repeating, 150 times each night before going to bed, the Coue magic formula: "Every day, and in every way, I get better and better."

The woman, being thoroughly converted to Coue-ism, thought she would play safe with a double dose of the magic formula. So she repeated it 300 times. And, next morning, woke up knock-kneed.

CHINESE

Chinese scholars claim that their ancestors once flew through the air and talked over enormous distances (airplanes and radio?).

China says mankind climbs upward 15,000 years, then down 15,000 to barbarism, back up, back down, so on forever.

A quaint theory, especially interesting these days when Caucasian brains fear we have built our civilization on quicksand.

OLD

The Coue theory of auto-suggestion
by which many believe they can cure their ills by repetition of an "I'm well now" phrase, seems new to many.

But in Tibet, for many centuries, people have believed they can become healthy and happy by saying, over and over, "Om mani padme om," which means, "O, the jewel in the Lotus, O."

Are Caucasians also becoming mystics?

DIFFERENT

H. G. Wells, surrendering to Gloom by degrees, fears that civilization is tottering. The only way to save the world, as he sees it, is to wipe out the war debts, thus saving civilization from bleeding to death under the creditors' knife.

This smells like a new version of the propaganda to induce America to forgive debts owed to use by Europe.
If Wells is right, the quickest way for Europe to save herself would be to cancel its internal indebtedness—
the money owed by the governments to their people. "That's different."

CATASTROPHES

Suppose our present civilization crashes to ruins, as H. G. Wells and others predict. What then?

Civilizations have decayed into the dust many times in the past. And out of the ruins a new and better civilization always rose. It's a natural process in the life-death-life cycle.

SLEUTH

Here is something new under the sun—a new detective story plot, which magazine editors say is as rare
as the dodo.

It is a true plot and comes in the telegraphic news from Davenport, Ia.
in this form: "After a three-day
search by the police for Harry Carey, alleged slayer, the startling discovery was made today that the dead man is Carey himself."

How did they manage to find it out?

GREASE

If you read the beauty ads, you notice various greasy preparations used by young men to keep their hair plastered down sleek and shining.

These young fellows counterfeiting movie actor Valentino, will not seem so foolish to those of the older generation whose memory is keen enough to remember when bear's grease was used for the same purpose.

Life is the same old show, generation after generation — actors and scenery changing, but the plot never.

POWER

We are wanderers in a fog. No American fully realizes the tremendous size and power of this country in which we live. To comprehend America as a whole, you would have to tour it constantly for at least 100 years. And then conditions would be changed and you'd have to start all over again.

Sometimes we get a glimpse of our national importance in the world, as now—when railroad statisticians tell us that America has 264,373 miles of railroad tracks. The world's total is

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

LITTLE MISS MUFFET.

"What brought you away up here in the sky?" asked Miss Muffet curiously.

The next person Nancy and Nick saw was little Miss Muffet. But you'd never have believed it was she, for there was no bowl of curds and whey, and no tuffet, and much to Nancy's relief, no spider sitting beside her either.

"What brought you away up here in the sky?" asked Miss Muffet curiously.

"Didn't you know?" exclaimed Nancy. "Mother Goose has lost her broom, and the cobwebs are getting thicker every time we come to find it."

"Light!" exclaimed Miss Muffet. "I suppose then the spiders will be getting worse, too, and I've troubles enough as it is. But let us talk of something else. What are the fashions now down on the earth where you live? So few people come up here and I'm afraid I'll get old-fashioned and out of date. Do little girls wear pinafores still? And are poke bonnets so fashionable as they were? And what is the newest shade of yarn for working samplers? And are long curls the style?"

SOIL

Poland is coming back rapidly, reports Charles Phillips, Red Cross worker over there. "In the four years since the restoration of the republic, Polish farmers have reclaimed and replanted over 5,000,000 acres of war devastated land. They have done this great work literally with their hands farm machinery being so scarce."

That's the history of Poland and most of the rest of Europe, so far back as the records go, war destroying, farmers rebuilding, one following the other as summer follows winter, so on, seemingly forever. Farmers certainly are patient with the war-breeders of cities.

WINTER

This winter will be colder than last one, predicts Dr. Plimmon H. Dudley. If you're a railroader, his name adds weight. He's weather expert for the New York Central lines.

For the old-timer who claims "we don't have the cold winters we used to," Dudley tells this:

"I was in Cleveland, O., and Jan. 1, 1876, was so warm that several gentlemen dressed in their linen coats to make their New Year calls, and recorded in their dairies how warm the weather was."

DIVORCE

A national law regulating marriage and divorce will be advocated and backed in Congress by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

On the average, marriage is beyond control, as any one knows who has ever tried to dissuade an infatuated couple.

But divorce can be regulated, should be. In round figures, one out of each nine marriages in America ends in divorce court. Tackle that national problem and we're getting to fundamentals.

COINCIDENCE

National City Bank's market letter makes this comment on the claim by Hoffman, German economist, that German industrial productivity has dropped 15 per cent under the eight-hour day:

"These figures have a curious coincidence, for they are exactly the figures for the annual (reparations) payments fixed by the London ultimatum of May 1, 1921."

Is it a case of premeditated coincidence, as well as a subconscious reluctance to pay up?

TIRED

The tired business man is real, not a myth, says Dr. Edward H. Oschner of Chicago, discussing "chronic fatigue intoxication."

"The tired business man," originally an expression of ridicule, steadily becoming more actual. What makes him tired? Answer: Heavy lunches, not enough exercise, stuffy air in badly ventilated offices, also lungs full of tobacco smoke-carbon. The remedy is obvious.

SLIPPING

Uncle Sam's income drops—steadily, alarmingly. Tax money received during September totaled only about $354,000,000, against $631,000,000 in September a year ago.

The old line, "Give until it hurts," should be changed to "Save until it hurts," and pasted in every congressman's hat.

More bond issues and a mounting of the national debt are inevitable unless economy is the first aim of Washington.

EMPLOYES

By Berton Braley

Ten million people are working for me. Working for all they're worth. They toil by land and they toil by sea. They bring from the ends of earth Food and raiment and furniture, Fabrics of gorgeous hues, Unguents, spices and perfumes pure—Whatever I want and use.

Ten million people are working for me. Maybe it's even more. Raising sugar and rice and tea, Digging me coal and ore; The painters paint and the writers write

And the singers of songs divine Make lovely music for my delight—They are troubadours of mine!

I mail a letter—ten thousand men Will speed it along the way; I board a train or a ship, and then Faithfully, night and day, Thousands of toilers guard me well Wherever I choose to go; The Lamp of Aladdin had no spell Like the magical spell I know.

The furrow is turned, the furnaces glare And the factories hum, that I May eat, have shelter, and clothes to wear. So, under the arching sky On farm and city, by land and sea In every clime and nation, Ten million people are working for me— And that is civilization!

DR. CLAUDE BACKUS LEARNS FROM COLONEL OF FILIPINO'S PLEAS

Is Told What Independence for Natives Would Mean.

By Dr. Claude Backus

What the Colonel said.
We were sitting on the wide veranda of a most attractive bungalow overlooking the Bay beyond the Polo Club at Manila. The rainy season was on and a typhoon had cleared the air of the usual heavy humidity and the tropical foliage was wonderful beyond description in the brilliant moonlight. The song of millions of base voiced frogs was at times broken by the wail of the pariah dog, giving a weird touch to the evening.

We were soothed by that satisfied feeling that follows a good dinner, anticipated by a delicious Manhattan and flanked by a good liquor over which the most attractive of hostesses and genial of hosts had presided. There were few better cigars than the Filipino brands when crisp and fresh on their native huath. Verily, we were in a mood to listen and the Colonel was in a mood to talk.

"You ask me what the result of the Filipino independence would be. That would take hours to tell and many explanations and exceptions would have to be made. It has been most interesting to me to watch the evolution and progress the climax and deterioration under American rule in the Islands for eighteen years, while in close touch with the principal actors personally."

"It is the general impression of Americans that the further deterioration from the wonderful progress made under the early American rule following a Native regime, would be rapid and result eventually in disaster and a close observer cannot but confirm this belief. In fact I myself, do not believe the wisest heads among the Filipinos really want it and would be thrown into a panic if placed on their own tomorrow."

"In many ways the Filipino leaders are brilliant. As lawyers and jurists they shine while under American leadership, the average Filipino is a good soldier, but placed on his own resources and forced to face responsibilities with no guiding hand that spells force, decision and initiative, he is a different man. This defect would show immediately if the government was turned over to them."

"I think I get what you are driving at, Colonel, and the same defect seems to apply to the Little B. wherever he is found. For instance, in India, where the native is a brilliant athlete under the British subaltern but collapses in hockey or soccer the minute the white leader leaves the game. I've noticed this in other countries as well."

"That is the quality. As long as everything is going well and there is a guiding spirit and initiative, things go well. Business firms have the same experience with their staff. In America we can't say much about graft in the other fellow but the sorriest ward-heeler would have to award the palm to the local talent when opportunity offers."

"One thing irritates the American who has stood by and watched the slump under a weak Governor-General and the shifting of responsible positions back to the Filipino. That is the privileges that are not appreciated. Privileges they were unable to create for themselves and were not offered by the Spanish. For instance, that of education. A Filipino has but to snap his fingers to gain entrance to a college and start on a career. In my own case I attempted and was successful in getting an eighteen year old son into Annapolis but it was a bitter struggle against much competition. Here, as I have said, it is a matter of the greatest ease and unappreciated."

During the war while the big nations were so engrossed, the Filipino saw his opportunity to slip under many innovations under the regime then in power directed at monopolizing commerce, business and banking for the native, throughout the Islands. They conceived the idea that they could be independent and were sufficient unto themselves. Childish, of course, but I listened to the plans in person and marveled at the lack of practical knowledge. The result was that legislation was enacted giving power to practically two men to form and operate institutions which caused the scandals resulting, including that of the bank."

"I sympathize with the present Governor General Wood in the task set him with hands tied by such legislation and powers curtailed. It is a colossal task and he faces problems that need much unraveling. His hands, to a great extent are tied and I think of Pershing in Mexico."

"However the present commission now in Washington, bent on securing National Independence, will get a hearing and our people will drink in many eloquent arguments. How much better it would be to have a commission made up of real hard-headed men travel to the Philippines and rather than make their observations in the banquet halls of this city, actually travel over the land and in a practical manner learn what is what."

The frogs were howling their loud hammering. "You have irritated them, Colonel. They are 'knocking' you with a vengeance. It is evident that even Filipino frogs do not like the trend of your remarks."

"Right you are, my boy. But the 'knocking' of the frogs is as naught to the 'holler' that goes up from the human native when thoughts similar to mine are made audible. But the result will be that they will persist until our well meaning, good natured people finally submit and when they do, look for the decline and fall of the Philippines."

Whereupon the pariah dogs gave a long and mournful howl.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Now there are two great reasons for getting Quaker Oats. One is exquisite flavor. This brand is flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, savory oats.

Now there's another style. It is Instant Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, so it means an oat dish almost ready.

Same quality, same flavor. But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small flakes cook quickly.

Your grocer has both styles. If you want Instant look for "Instant" on the label. Then you can have delicious oats ready in 5 minutes.

THE MAN WITH STEEL FINGERS

Begin Here Today

M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives, was ushered into the presence of the strange and fear-compelling LORD VALLEYS, the English-Serb who had just inherited the title and estates of his murdered uncle, Lord Winton.

Three lives had stood between the Lord Valleys and the wealth of his uncle. But each of Lord Winton's sons were killed in the great war, only one, who married an American, left an heir and this heir, a daughter, was barred by English law from inheritance.

Thus came the murder of Lord Winton and the inheritance of the estate by the strange, powerful and morose Lord Valleys.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER II

THE murder of Lord Winton, the wise English authorities attributed to me," Lord Valleys continued coolly.

"They spared no effort to fix it upon me. That they were unable to do so is not, I think, attributable to this thing which you call Providence."

"It is attributable rather, I think, to the intelligence of my legal counsel and to myself."

He looked directly at Monsieur Jonquille. His big, placid face lifted; his voice was even and unburied.

"I am not embarrassed to discuss it, monsieur," he continued. "When the war had ended with the death of Lord Winton's sons, I was, by virtue of what you have so aptly called 'the accident of birth,' next in succession to the title. I thought it both advisable and courteous to present myself to Lord Winton, and I went to England for that purpose."

"Lord Winton was an eccentric person. As he grew older, and after the death of his sons, his eccentricity became more dominant. I did not find him on his estates at Ravenscroft; he was, at this time in London in a little old house which the family has always owned in a street toward Covent Garden."

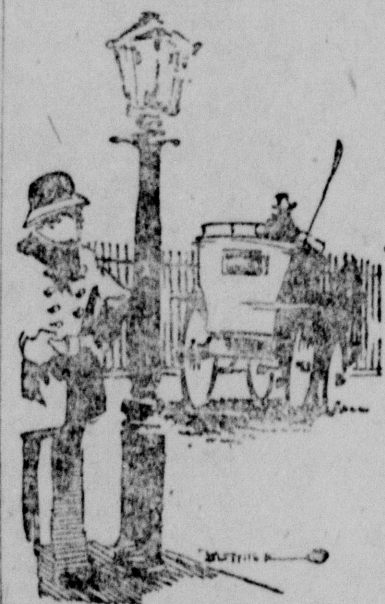

"On the night that I called to see Lord Winton, it was quite late. I found him alone in the house. He seemed disturbed to see me, but he was courteous, and I cannot complain of his welcome. He seemed, however, not to realize that I had grown into a man. He seemed to regard me as a queer, foreign lad to whom he owed some obligation of hospitality."

"Lord Valleys stopped. He leaned a little forward in the chair, and his voice took on a firmer note."

"Monsieur," he said, "I am saying to you now a thing to which I testified at the English trial, and which was not believed. Lord Winton told me that he expected a person to call on him within a very few minutes and to remain for perhaps an hour. He asked me to return at the end of an hour. I got up to go. As I went down the stairway, a hansom, entering the street from the direction of the city, stopped before the door. The door was closed but the sound was clearly audible."

"Lord Winton, who was behind me, came also down the steps. On a console in the hall were several candles which the servants, according to custom, had placed there. An idea came to Lord Winton, for he stopped me as my hand was on the door to go out. He took up one of these candles in a tall brass candlestick, and touching me on the arm, handed it to me."

"Instead of going out," he said, "suppose you go down into the wine cellar. There should be some bottles of Burgundy of a famous year stored there by your grandfather. See if you can find them, and we shall have a glass of wine with our talk. I have a great deal to say to you, my nephew. The wine will sustain us."

SAW A HANSON DRIVE AWAY FROM LORD WINTON'S DOOR.

sharply at that sentence.

"The English criminal court," he said, "was even more stupid than you imagine. It was, as you have said, 'incredibly stupid.'"

Lord Valleys made no comment.

"There was only my word for the statement," he said. "I could not prove it, and yet it was the truth."

The man was startled by Monsieur Jonquille's reply.

"One knew that, although one would have been troubled to describe the evidence. It is precisely the truth," said Monsieur Jonquille.

Lord Valleys looked steadily at the Prefect for a moment before he spoke.

"I regret, monsieur," he said, "that you were not present in that English court."

The man looked down again at his wonderful hands, steel strong, and as supple as silk; then he went on:

"It happened, however, that this chance, which you question in human affairs, came to my aid. One of the Metropolitan police on duty on this night in the neighborhood of Covent Garden saw a hansom drive away from Lord Winton's door. The time, as nearly as could be fixed, corresponded with the hour which I had indicated in my testimony. And for the first time in the course of the criminal trial, the case for the Crown was shaken. Neither my solicitors nor the Crown were able to discover anything further. The driver of the hansom could not be located, and the one who called that night upon Lord Winton remained a mystery."

Lord Valleys continued to speak deliberately and without emotion.

"I do not know who this person with whom Lord Winton had a midnight appointment, could have been, and I do not know what occurred at that mysterious conference, except, of course, the resultant tragedy, which was afterward known to everyone."

"I took the candle which Lord Winton gave me and went along the hall to the stairway, which descended into the basement of the house. I had in my hand the key to the wine-cellar."

"The last I saw of Lord Winton in his life was his tall, bowed back as he stooped to open the door, his hand on the latch. He seemed a sort of heavy shadow outlined against the door in the dim light of the gas-jet that burned feebly, lighting the hall behind him."

He made a vague gesture, lifting one of his hands softly from the arm of the chair.

"Here, monsieur, chance or my intelligence failed me. If I had remained a moment—if, in fact, I had looked back as I went down the stairway at the end of the hall, I should have seen Lord Winton's assassin."

The Prefect of Police made no comment, and Lord Valleys continued:

"After some little difficulty, I finally found the door to the wine-cellar, opened it and entered. It was very old—one of those huge stone cells which the early English built in their houses in which to store the choice wines of France."

"It seemed to me that this wine-cellar had not been entered in a long time. I was mistaken. It was, in fact, from time to time, been looked into by Lord Winton's manservant. I have said 'fortunately,' because this manservant, Staley, was able to confirm my statement."

"The whole of the low vault was cluttered with straw, piled and heaped with it, like a farmer's rick. It was this aspect of the place that gave me the impression that it had not been entered for a long time. And it was true; it had not been disturbed for a long time. The walls and the floor of this cellar were stone; the ceiling was of wood crossed with beams dried out like tinder, and the bins, as I have said, were heaped with the straw in which innumerable wine-cells had been packed."

"Lord Winton had described the wine which he wished so that I could not mistake it. But he was not certain in which bin it was to be found, and I had to make a search of very nearly the whole of the cellar. This did not disturb me, for Lord Winton had fixed an hour as the length of the visit of the person whom he expected, and who, in fact, had arrived. And I was not to return until that time. It was, as nearly as I can determine, about eleven o'clock of the night when I went down the steps to the wine-cellar."

The man remained silent a moment as if in some contemplation. Finally he continued:

"An unfortunate accident occurred. In rising from a bin over which I had been stooped, the candle touched a wisp of straw hanging from above, and immediately the dried-out, half-rotten wood of the beamed ceiling flashed into flame."

He paused again.

"I was appalled, but I did not lose my sense of necessity. I undertook to put the fire out. I made a desperate effort against it, there in that underground cell, for I knew the house must burn if this whole wood ceiling took fire. The place filled with smoke. It became very nearly impossible to breathe, but I did not give up the fight against the fire. Finally when I was blinded, choked and very nearly unconscious, I broke open the door leading from the basement of the house and ran out into the street. It seemed that I should never breathe, and I continued to run."

"You know what followed. I was taken up by one of the Metropolitan police; the burning house was entered, and Lord Winton brought out. He was dead! The small blade of a knife had been driven into his body low down on the right side. The wound, ranging upward, was deep. It had severed a vital artery."

The final installment of this thrilling mystery will appear in our next issue.

DEEP WATERS NO. 5

ADVENTURE IN ROMANCE

BY ZOE BECKLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The deadly monotony of married life palled on JOHN BARRETT. He did not dislike his wife.

ANITA, and he loved his two children. Finally the breaking point was reached and when Barrett could stand the tedium no longer he announced that he was going to seek adventure before passing middle age. Nor would he seek alone. He announced that he intended to share his lot with MYRA DEAN, a successful woman of the world. Barrett goes to Myra's apartment and offers himself to her.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Myra Dean regarded Barrett intently for a moment.

"Come in." She stood aside for him to enter. "You—aren't you joking a bit heavily today, Jack?"

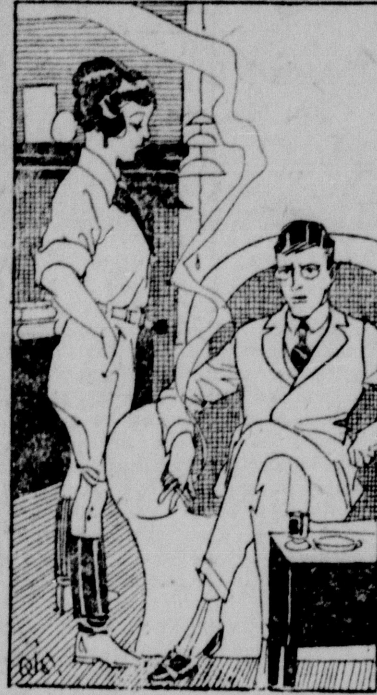

"I'll admit to heavy, but not the joke," he growled, entering the big, piquantly attractive living-room, so reflective of the woman who had made it. She was as alert, elastic and dainty in figure as a jockey, clad as she was in well-worn riding togs that had seen service in many a land; a wind-flushed, eager little face in which an amusingly virile will power gleamed with a very feminine prettiness, the embodiment of all that is modern, foot-loose, competent, ready for any worthwhile adventure.

Her brown eyes rested on Barrett now with a gravity uncharacteristic of her impulsive self.

"Sit in the fat chair," she ordered, herself remaining standing. "No body can be quite as silly founded in that chair as erect and ready to fly north, south, east or west. Now what am I to say in reply to that joke?"

"That you accept me—only it's not a joke," Barrett sat down heavily in the "fat chair," his gaze brooding about the room that so eloquently expressed the life of the woman to whom he had come.

A huge desk, not handsome, of un-

"AND YOU WANT TO ADVENTURE ABOUT A BIT WITH ME?"

pretentious dull wood, was heaped with manuscripts, note books, copy paper, letters. A shining up-to-the-minute typewriter, business-like, but portable, and ready to be snatched up for a writing trip to France or Egypt, or a war correspondent's gambling job in the Balkans, sat there, with a half-written sheet still in its jaws. Books, a fire, flowers, a deep divan—the makings of a home—and a partly packed suit case with remnants of foreign labels, gaping impatiently for its equipment for a quick jump abroad. How expressive of Myra and her life, with its wide gamut of change!

"I've simply come," went on Barrett, "to the jumping-off place. Anita, and I have nothing in common any more except a poisonous monotony of existence. We're neither of us dead enough to endure it any longer.

"To her I'm only a creature who spills ashes on her favorite rugs, comes late for dinner and whose temper is boorish. To me she is—Oh, Myra, I don't know—just a woman who sees nothing in me, hates me. Oh, yes, she does—because I loathe settling down to a father-of-a-family existence spiced with breakfast quarrels and bill-paying."

"And you want to adventure about a bit? With me. Well, Jack, I'm flattered—but busy. I'm off to Smyrna on the 'Cedric' in the morning. Six months' writing work. When I come back—"

Barrett leaped to his feet, grasping her arms.

Modern dress, hair dressers, facial experts and cosmetics all combine to keep women of all ages young and attractive in appearance. Not until the telltale wrinkles become so deep, the figure stoops, or some ailment or weakness develops to drag a woman down does she really look her age. Every woman owes it to herself and her family to keep herself young in appearance, and happy. ROUGHING IT

One of the roughest players in collegiate football went west to work on a ranch. His reputation had preceded him, and the cowboys asked him to teach them the game. So, the collegian made up two husky eleven, outlined the rules, and finished with: "If you can't kick the ball, kick an opponent. Already get busy!"

"Where's the ball?"

"Oh, shoot the ball," retorted a punpuncher, "let's get into the game."

Go to Church Sunday

Oh, Puritan, if thou wert only living in this hour, America had need of thee, she is like a ship without a pilot.

Her home life has become lax, and thy sturdy regard for morals has given way to a disregard of the pure, the holy, and the respect of self and others. Scissiveness has been destroying thy tradition. The good Book so revered by you has been replaced by the sensational novel, and thy God has been dethroned for the almighty dollar.

We are made drunk by our material wealth and our end is self destruction. Oh, raise us up, return to us again and give us personal worth, freedom, virtue and power. Teach us to pray and help us to put the Christ in our daily lives. Help us to recover the rights of others, succor the distressed, seek down class distinction and unite us wide for its brotherhood among men. Help us to keep the clarity of the home, intact. That was thy strength and power, our heritage from thee, and without it we rock to the wind like a reed. Reprove us day by day until from vain temptations we are free, and we are worthy of our heritage.

CONSISTORY WILL MEET

The board of executives of Freeport Consistory is making extensive preparations for what is expected to be one of the most enthusiastic sessions ever held at Masonic Temple in that city.

The sessions will take up three days, lasting from the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 21, to the evening of Thursday, Nov. 23, and ending with a reception and ball. More than fifty petitions have already been received, and the conferring of degrees will be the chief feature of the meeting.

CHEF HAD PLENTY BUT HE COULD HARDLY EAT

Even an expert chef for an up-to-date restaurant, with everything heart could wish in the eating line and the skill to prepare it in the most appetizing manner, finds life miserable and work a burden with his appetite gone and his health all broken up on account of stomach trouble.

According to his own statement, such had been the case for two years with William Lackey, 865 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill., chef at a popular North Clark St. restaurant, who says he recently found relief by taking Tanlac.

Mr. Lackey now boasts of a "wonderful appetite and a stomach that digests such things as ham and eggs, corned beef and cabbage, and rich pastries, foods that would have almost put me out of commission before I took Tanlac."

"Before I ran across this medicine," said he, "I was having to lay off from my work for a week at a time just on account of the numerous ills I suffered from indigestion. But when I tell you I have gained fifteen pounds, eat and digest anything, and am on the job every day feeling fine you may know how I appreciate Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

CONGRESSWOMAN IS CLEANING HOUSE FOR STAY IN WASHINGTON

Mrs. Winifred Huck in Interview Concerning Her Ambitions.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS

NEA Staff Correspondent

Chicago—Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, newly elected congresswoman-at-large from Illinois, is practicing for her job in Washington.

Cleaning house!

When I entered the home of Mrs. Huck, she met me with a dust rag. She had just put the finishing touches to the top of the family piano. A cloth was tied about her hair and she was dressed just as any other housewife during the morning dusting.

Mother, politician, wife and housekeeper—all these roles have been crowded into her 40 busy years now terminating in an honor which never before had been bestowed on a woman east of the Mississippi. She is going to Washington to fill the unexpired term left vacant by the death of her father, William E. Mason, over a year ago.

"You've just come in time," she greeted me with a smile. "I'm practicing for my job at the capital."

"Cleaning! Do you get what I mean?"

"But there's one thing above everything else for which I'm going to Washington. That is to make the country safe from war. My father was against war. And it is to fulfill his ideas, suddenly terminated by death, that I am accepting the post."

"War is needless and futile. I purpose to have a referendum taken on the subject which will make a declaration for war impossible, except in case of attack upon this country without first submitting the question to a direct vote of the people."

"Whatever else I can accomplish that has far-sighted effect I will also strive for. But to end war. That is my main mission and purpose."

Politics is no new game for Mrs. Huck. Ever since a girl of 16 she has been plunging into one campaign or other.

With her father, she went about the country listening to his stump speeches, and on occasions made addresses herself in his behalf.

Her husband is a civil engineer. They met in Washington while attending high school together during a time when her father was serving as senator.

They have been married almost 20 years and have four children, three boys and a girl.

She is "Carrying On"

"I will only be in Congress until next March, when my term expires," she said.

"Miracles cannot be expected in so short a time from anyone. But, at least, I can plant the seed of what I stand for and what my father stood for."

"It is for him that I am carrying on. My platform is one of open-mindedness."

"I am a republican only so far as my party represents Republicans. But I—I am a conscience candidate, and I will vote with my conscience."

"I will not represent any particular group, but with the opportunity afforded, I will be especially interested in progressive legislation for women."

"I am dry and don't care who knows it. And above all else I am a woman, with the heart and feelings and sympathies of a mother."

"And just as you see me cleaning

LABOR SECOND PARTY.
London, Nov. 16. — Labor takes its place as the second party in the house of commons as the result of the election. Mr. Lloyd George's expedition into the wilderness would seem, on the face of things, to have gained him little. His followers elected were running next to the last position held by a little body of independent thinkers of various persuasions.

Women fared barely and in cases ran last in the voting. Labor, Astor and Mrs. Margaret Mittingham were re-elected but no others were reported as successful.

GENESEO YOUTH
FULL BACK FOR ILLINI LIKELY

Schultz Wins Honor of Starting Game Tomorrow P. M.

Urbana, Ill.—Geneseo, Ill., proudly advances to the front as a town that will be represented on the fighting Illini when Zuppke's comeback kids hurl themselves against Stagg's powerful veterans.

Emil Schultz of Geneseo has won the honor of starting at fullback on Stagg field. This seemed to be indicated by the way the Illini were lined up by Zuppke in his final workouts on Illinois field today. Emil is a sophomore. He weighs about 163 pounds, in striking contrast to the beef of John Thomas, 180 pounds, the experienced veteran who plays full for Chicago.

Although it is true that Schultz obtained his chance at Wisconsin through the disability of the regular fullbacks, Woodward and Hill, he appears to be making good on his hook nowadays. Woodward's hand seems to rule him out but there is a chance that Hill can play if desired.

On either side of Schultz will be Wallace McIlwain and Cliff Happenny for awhile as he did at Wisconsin. On Camp Randall the little coach played Bill Robinson until the time was ripe for Happenny's slashing drives.

The Illinois squad of thirty players and camp-followers will be quartered at the South Shore Country club until Saturday noon. Zuppke's men were guests of the club two years ago and readily accepted an invitation to return.

The university and Champaign and Urbana rock with excitement. There's not a ticket to be had for love or money and many local fans waited too long and will have to see the game vicariously by radio or wire. Illinois' great victory at Madison stimulated the demand for tickets for the Ohio-Illinois battle on Illinois field next week and there is a brisk sale daily. There are tickets available but Business Manager Beach does not care to predict how long they will last.
